NEGLECT OF DUTY.

Charge Against Policeman Newkirk

Before Trial Board. Officer J. T. Newkirk of the sixth precinct station was before the police trial board this afternoon on a charge of neglect of duty, preferred by William Adams Slade. It was charged that Slade asked Newkirk to assist an aged man who was drunk, and that the officer jeered at him, and when he asked for the officer's number the latter hit him with his baton and with his foot or knee.

The testimony of the prosecuting witness bore out the statements made in the specification of the charges. Slade was arrested by the officer and fined in the Police Court the next morning. It was shown for the defense that the officer was asked by Slade to pick up a drunken man, but was not told where he was. The officer stated that if he found the man he would send him to the station house. "You're a nice officer," it was testified that Slade said. The officer arrested Slade after he had used some profanity, but he denied that he used any struck him in any way. Witnesses to the arrest stated that the man did not resist, and that no force was necessary or was used. It was also testified that the man was under the influence of liquor when brought into the station house.

Bottle Missed Mark.

A bottle thrown by Lilly King at her husband last evening missed its aim and struck her stepdaughter in the eye. The glass broke and pieces of it entered her eye, injuring the eyeball seriously. The child was taken to the Casualty Hospital, where she is under medical treatment. Lilly, the mother, was arrested by Officer Wilson of the ninth precinct station at her home, in Trinidad street northeast, and she was taken into the Police Court this morning. The case was continued until July 12, when it is expected that the child will be able to appear.

It is said by the police that the father and mother of the child got into an altercation and some blows were passed. Little Maria ran into the room in time to get the blow intended for the man. Officer Wilson was attracted to the scene by cries, and he found the girl on the floor bleeding about her eyes. She said that the mother had struck her. When taken into custody the mother said that she intended the bot-

MANY VISIT THIS CITY

RAILROADS SAY THEY BROUGHT 2,000 HERE IN FORENOON.

Plans for Big Meeting at National Capital This Afternoon-The District Delegation Busy.

Special From a Staff Correspondent. BALTIMORE, Md., July 8.-The twentysecond International Christian Endeavor convention has adjourned to the "suburbs" of the city. That is to say to the "suburbs" as Baltimoreans fondly view the matter. Thousands left this morning and early this Dannenhauer, Michael Weaver, Arthur C. afternoon for Washington, D. C., Gettys> burg. Luray and other places of interest. By far the larger proportion of the delegates took advantage of the special rates to Washington, and went that way. From there many expect to make trips to Mount Vernon and Arlington. The railroads estimate that they carried about 2,000 on this trip during the forenoon. By special invitation of the Baltimore convention committee, a large party, including the visiting officers of the United Society of Christian Endeavor, many prominent Baltimoreans and the members of the press, left at 1 p.m. on a chartered steamer for a trip down Chesapeake bay, to return about 5 p.m., in time for the "camp fire" in the 5th Regiment Armory this evening.

The District Delegates. The delegates from the District of Columbla returned to their homes last night and early this morning in large numbers, in order to make ready to receive their guests from this city. Herman C. Metcalf, chairman of the District reception committee, was one of those to go last night. He intended to perfect arrangements at the Washington railroad stations. Percy S. Foster of Washington returned last night also. He is scheduled to lead the singing at the open-air mass meeting at the Capitol at 3:30 p.m. today, which it is the intention of many delegates from here to attend. Most of the Washington delegates are expected back in Baltimore this evening, o remain throughout the remainder of the Contest Over Next Convention. The contest among the different delegations for the international Christian Endeavor convention of 1907 has assumed such proportions that the leading cities in the race, Kansas City, Mo., and Seattle, Wash., through their representatives here, are leaving no stone unturned to advertise their respective merits. So strenuous have been the efforts of these two delegations that practically all other competitors have dropped out of the race. The executive committee of the United Society is known to be pretty evenly divided between the city of the middle west and that of the Pacific coast. The voting has been so close that a decision was reached to postpone final action in selecting the meeting place of 1907 until the fall meeting of the committee. Rev. Dr. F. D. Power, the committeeman from Washing ton, D. C., is in favor of Kansas City, Mo. Rather unexpectedly this question has be come the all-absorbing one of the conven-tion. Many of the speakers refer to it at the big mass meetings and openly plead their cause. Seattle promises a beautiful trip along the Alaskan coast to the dele-

WALTER MINNIS ARRESTED. Charged With Assaulting Mrs. Annie

M. Devine. Walter Minnis was arrested last evening by Officer G. H. Dawson of the ninth precinct station on a charge of assaulting Mrs. Annie M. Devine with a dangerous weapon. The arrest came after a search which has lasted continually since the time of the injury to Mrs. Devine, on the evening of the Fourth of July. Minnis has admitted to the officers that he committed the assault. The warrant charging him with assault with a dangerous weapon was filed in the Police Court this morning and the case was continued indefinitely, to await the outcome of the injuries to Mrs. Devine. Bond in the case was fixed at $3,000, in default of which the prisoner was committed to jail.

The assault was one of the most peculiar that has come to the attention of the local police authorities for some time. Mrs. De-vine was sitting out in front of her house with her husband about 10:20 p.m. on the evening of the Fourth, when four boys came down the street. As they got oppo-site the house one of the boys threw something into the yard, unnoticed by those in it. It was an electric battery with a dynamite cartridge on it. The connection with the battery was made and almost as soon as the battery landed in the chair Mrs. Devine was sitting it exploded. The report was like that of a cannon. Those in the yard did not know what had happened. And the boys who had just passed had fled, Mrs. Devine screamed that she was shot and her husband rushed to her and asked her for further explanation. When the injury was found to be serious, medical aid was called and Mrs. Devine was taken into her home. The doctor pronounced the wound dangerous. It was found that the cartridge had exploded and had penetrated Probing eight inches in the flesh has failed to locate the end of the cartridge. It is the opinion of the doctors that there is a chance for recovery, but they say it

The task which the detectives had to undertake was no small one. Officer Dawson worked on the case carefully. He succeed ed in locating one of the boys of the crowd from which the dangerous cartridge was thrown, and through him the identity the guilty man was discovered. Minnis was known to the police, as they say he has been in the toils before. When Minnis was located at 1122 E street northwest, the police say, he defied the officer to arrest him and locked himself in his room. Officer showed that he intended to lock Minnis up, and the latter was impressed and gave himself up. The officer says he admitted his guilt and took the officer to a place where similar batteries were found. They are used to break rocks in blasting and are considered very powerful. Officers say that they do not see how Mrs. Devine escaped death.

It is expected that it will be several weeks before the case can be tried, owing to the condition of Mrs. Devine.

This led to the fight. son says that the knife was in the hands of Simms Hayden, the other man who is in the hospital. Hayden was hit with a brick in the hand and over the eye and he charges Charles Wilson with the assault. Wilson was arrested and a charge of assault was placed against him in the Police Court this morning and bond fixed in th case at $2,000. The case was continued in-definitely and Wilson was committed to iail to await the trial of the case. ports: "On Saturday I received a call to visit the son of a farmer. The message was, "The lad has been bitten by a fish." On my arrival I found the lad suffering from a severe wound of the right foot, which required several stitches. On making inquiries I was told the lad had been bathing along with two others, in the river Leven, which runs near to the farm at Sinnington, and on getting out of the water he sat on the bank, as lads are wont to do, when suddenly a large fish jumped out of the water onto the bank, selzed the lad by the foot and jumped in again. The distance from the water to the edge of the bank was quite two feet, and the lad's foot was three feet from the edge of the bank. A lady who was passing and heard his cries went to his assistance and carried him home, as the foot was bleeding profusely. A gentleman who stays at the farm and is an enthusiastic angler asked to be shown the place, and said he would try to catch the fish. On taking his fishing tackle he had the gratification of catching the fish in a few minutes with an artificial batt. It turned out to be a fine pike, measuring two feet one and a half inches long, and weigh-ing six pounds. "There can be no doubt," adds the doctor, "as to the truth of the oc-currence, for I not only saw the lad and the fish, but also saw the fish measured and the gentleman who caught it."

The Close of a Hot Day. From Lippincott's Magazine. At last the glaring sun descends, then a sudden breeze flutters the foliage, light straws or dust begin to dance in circles, first a few steps, then a fierce measure. The fairy fiddles are still with dread. The valley darkens in awful stience and clouds roll together on the rushing wind. Trees bend and shiver and turn out the white linings of their foliage, dogs and poultry crawl into shelter, and wise men shut doors and windows, for lightning rides on the draught and is sure to touch more than one of those trees or houses with its fiery sword. The roar and flash are such as England never sees. A Niagara of rain, welcome though terrible, bathes the dry earth, and soon the world, cooled and moistened, sparkles in the setting sun. Then people in light vehicles drive out to taste the air, my young friends come on horseback, and while we sit in the darkness sipping iced lemonade or sherbet the multi-tudinous voices of the grass and leaves again rehearse their symphony. From the distant pond booms the heavy frog note, from overhanging branches twills the con-tented, undiscoverable tree frog. The heavy myriad grasshoppers tune up their wiry legs and fiddle with fresh enthusiasm. The stinging swarm of mosquitoes sing around a little lamp in the ball. Fireflies flicker everywhere. We listen to them and are idle. Out-Figaroes Figaro.

From the London Chronicle. The great corporation of barbers has produced some distinguished men before and since the Barber of Seville. The city of Bayonne boasts one of them. His name is Perron. He is a barber, a musician, a poet, and a journalist. He edits a journal called The Bayonne Razor. "To barbers," he says in his lyrical way, "belongs the head of man, that head which the Deity has made in his own image and which we are spiritually ordained to remodel. Two infinties stretch across the ages; one of them is the creative power, the other is the bar-ber." That is pretty well, and it incites a Paris critic to ask, "Where's your Victor Hugo now?" M. Perron is a Knight of the Order of Isabella the Catholic, leader of the orchestra at the masked balls of Bay-onne, musical critic of various journals, the composer of a hundred pieces of music, director of the Perron Academy of Hairdressing and the father of six children.
